Wedding Bells.

A very happy and unique event took place on Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Young when their daughter Miss Phyllis and Mr. C. Harding Hewardson, son of C. W. Hewardson, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. The ceremony was performed on the porch, Bishop Anderson officiating, while the Raymond orchestra played the melodious wedding strains.

The bride was gowned in a pretty white lawn dress, carrying with her a shower bouquet of roses and carnations.

About seventy five invited guests were present and after the happy event had taken place, the guests sat down to a dainty repast, partaking of ice cream, cake and other refreshments.

Many were the presents received by the young couple which shows the high esteem in which they are held by their many warm friends.

The newly married couple carry with the best wishes of Rustler and their many friends for a long and happy sojourn through life. Mr. and Mrs. Hewardson will reside in the beautiful cottage recently vacated by Mr. S. Jacobs, on Second West and First North streets.

Note and Comment

Canada is getting good advertising at a Biscay this year. The Canucks are carrying everything before them.

Now that our town is to have an installment of water works system our next civic improvement should be granolithic sidewalk. Magrath and Cardston are installing these, let us not be behind them.

When we will have the satisfaction of knowing that our water work system is installed, and that we will have an up to date fire protection, our hearts will be but a grateful remembrance to Mayor Rivers and his followers for 1909. As long as they want to represent us on the council board, they are welcome to it. They have certainly something to show for their work this year.

The Standard Oil Co. have decided to turn the cow and dairymen out of business, its chemists have discovered a process whereby they can make gilt edge butter as a product of crude petroleum. What next. The gigantic octopus will soon be able to say "the world is mine."

There seems to be quite a difference of opinion as to where our Provincial Agricultural college should be situated, whether it should be governed in connection with the University at Saskatchewan or should it be an entirely separate institution. We wholly agree with the opinion and ideas of Senator Talbot, as set out in these columns a few weeks ago. Our young Province will do well to take a lesson from the older provinces in this respect and by so doing a costly error may be avoided. We are young and by following a wise example we will learn many things.

Facts About The Seattle Fair

Dominion Building Has Many Representative Exhibits

An illustrative and beautiful pictorial record of Canada, past and present, is exhibited in the Canada National Exhibit building of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition of Seattle. The descriptive effect is accomplished by panoramic paintings and specimens of grasses, plants and mounted examples of taxidermists art.

The back grouse shows a realistic view of the great fields, orchards and forests of the entire Dominion, while the space separating this from the spectators is filled in with picturesque natural settings in which are grouped a collection of all animals native to our own country.

A pair of buffalo with shaggy skins and massive limbs confront the viewer, and a group of elk with wide spreading antlers are seen browsing in a sea of grass. The rare animal of the North, the wood bison, was represented by a beautiful specimen captured in the Peace River region, 1000 miles North of the boundaries of the United States. Beaver, mink, otter, raccoon, wolf and all the lesser animals are posed in life like attitudes, and a great grizzly bear, raised to its fullest height, holds in his mouth a placard bearing this inscription: "Yes hard work has removed my prairie friends, and through the building of a railroad through the Rockies our family has found life not worth living!"

The panorama shows clearly and cleverly the wonderful transition of the north country, and the picture demonstrates the rapidity with which the vast areas of unoccupied lands have been occupied and brought to a high state of production.

Many clever explication ideas are to be seen in the building, housing the exhibits of Canada at the fair in Seattle. The exhibit is exceptionally comprehensive in scope and its arrangement presents in the most desirable manner possible. Every department of wealth production is represented and these are carefully labeled with descriptive accounts of interest.

In attractively bringing the wood pulp industry before visitors, ingenious and beautiful method has been employed. In the department devoted to this display a panoramic view has been called into use, in this is aided by natural effects. A waterfall supplies a small stream and this makes its way through the front part of the exhibit. A jam of logs of the varieties used in pulp production.

These institutions animals show the skillfulness of their teeth by the smoothly cut trees, felled through their labors.

Two pair of these animals are confined in the slatted wire cage, and supply the required touch of real life to the picture. Specimens of paper, wire tubes, pails and other utensils show the various uses to which wood pulp is adapted. The exhibit is one of the most attractive of the Exposition, and daily attracts thousands of interested spectators.

Apples, more than 2000 of them including every variety, are to be seen among the horticultural exhibits of the different building at the Seattle Exposition.

A Letter From Elder Gurnett Allred on a Mission.

July 19th
Editor Raymond Rustler,
Dear Sir:

I have been reading for almost two years now, while in these Western States, your valuable little paper, and I have very much to thank you for dropping a few words expressive of my appreciation of your clearly up to date and new little paper. But my time has been so thoroughly occupied in the work of the ministry, that I have found little time, indeed, for other matters.

For the last 5 months I have been laboring in the state of New Hampshire, which has certainly been endowed by nature with its share of beauty and grandeur. Excellently good opportunities have been afforded me to become acquainted with the state, and its people, politically, and especially religiously, as I have travelled its length and breadth, twice on foot.

Politically the old party lines are quite firmly fixed, with but little agitation, except at election time, and this is confined largely to the larger centres.

There is however a vigorous effort on the part of the Socialist party, which is gathering adherents in a marvellous manner. Excellent the people of N. H. are generally well educated, refined, kind hearted and hospitable.

There is a large sprinkling of the French speaking people, attracted to this state from Eastern Canada and the old world, by the numerous factories of which this state is so full.

The state is quite hilly and heavily timbered which makes many parts of it ideal pleasure resorts. In the White Mountains thousands of Summer people from Boston, New York, Philadelphia and other large cities, leave their summer homes to which they repair, during the hot building days of which the country is so characteristic. There is a railroad running to the top of Mt. Washington, the highest point in the White Mts. from which a beautiful view of the valleys below is afforded.

Farming is carried on in a very limited manner in N. H., Vermont, and large portions of Maine.

Our farmers would never think that Canada was rocky, if they had to farm among the rocks, and stamps of old New Hampshire.

Religiously the people of N. H. are largely possessed with the line spirit of freedom of thought and of religious toleration, and are sufficiently broad minded to make investigation of the beliefs of others.

The Canadian Elders are very much in evidence in this part. The Maine conference is presided over by Elder Wm. Steed of Cardston, the New England conference by a young but a very good, capable Canadian, Elgie Spackman of Stirling, while Elder John T. Smellie a new arrival has the distinction of presiding over the newly organized conference of Vermont. We also have with us Elder John H. Russell of Taber and Leroy Jensen of Magrath, both of whom are performing noble missions out here.

We all read and appreciate your paper and note with pleasure the growth and development of our little town.

I am your fellow townsman, Elder Gurnett Allred,

Roosevelt's heart would have been overjoyed could he have seen the 20,000 children enjoying themselves on the grounds at the A. V. P. Exposition, on Children's day. Chorus of 1,200 voice, a Japanese children's chorus and band of 30 pieces, were features.

Whirling through space at the rate of two miles a minute is a sensation which is indulged in at the Pay Streak at the Seattle Exposition.

An electric lucifer for hatching ostrich eggs is one of the features of the California building at the World's fair Seattle. This is a recent invention.

The 1912 Selkirk Centennial.

Arrangements Have Already Commenced on the Big Fair

Work of the committee that is engaged in planning the place for the Canadian International Exhibition to be held in this city in 1912, is proceeding with all possible dispatch. Following up the canvass of Western Canada made in the Spring, the committee is now engaged in placing the project before the Eastern Canadian public through the medium of a canvass of that part of the Dominion made by Secretary Charles F. Rand, of the Exposition committee. Mr. Rand has been in the East several weeks, part of the time accompanied by members of the committee, who went to Ottawa to present the Exposition memorial to Sir Laurier, and he has also had the assistance of George Ham, the well known newspaper man.

From this canvass of Eastern Canada, Secretary Rand returns most encouraging reports as the press of Eastern Canada verify these reports by articles that appear in the news and editorial columns, which are generally highly favorable to the project of holding a Canadian Exposition here.

In all the work that is done, the committee and its agents are striving with much aim and main to make the Exposition cover the interests of each district, city or town to that when the work has been done, not even the most inconspicuous part of Canada will have cause to complain that its claims have been slighted and its interests defeated.

Naturally in the necessary haste of a preliminary canvass, the more prominent places have received a larger share of attention from the Exposition committee than the smaller towns and settlements, but discussion which takes place at the committee's meetings indicates clearly and forcibly that the whole country is to be covered in minute detail and the wishes and interests of every part will be given cogentiations care.

The awakening of the East to the very sharp material interest which that part of the Dominion has in the West, is one of the invaluable to Canadian trade in Canadian goods that must surely result from such a canvass as is now being made of the East, and which will be elaborated and made vastly more effective as the Exposition develops. It seems to be true that both of the great sections of Canada have been too busy to get thoroughly acquainted with each other, and the work of the Exposition committee—even in its present comparatively crude and tentative form—has done a good deal to enlighten the members of the committee and the people whom they have met in several parts of the Dominion, on the real conditions and real needs of the Canadian people.

Besides placing its memorial before the Dominion Government and asking for the substantial sum of $2,500,000, the Exposition committee has preferred a request for a quarter of a million dollars from the Manitoba Provincial

Jeanine Russell Co.

The ever popular Jeanine Russell Company have been playing in the Opera House this week. It will be remembered that they played here for the period of a week a few months ago and their many costs gained the heartiest approval from our public at large. This engagement the management promises it even a better performance and they certainly lived up to it. Miss Jeanine Russell, the ever popular and leading young lady of the company appeared here for the first time, she having been ill when the cast last showed here. She is certainly a clever actress and without a doubt the best that has yet been seen in our town. Our readers know that Ray F. Brand on needs no introduction, as his appearances here before have won for him the best wishes of the Raymond people. The company consists of some new talent, but the many Raymond friends of the company were glad to see the popular faces of Joe Kelsey, E. Loring Kelly, J. Lionel Swift and Mrs. Swift, Mr. and Mrs. Calwell and Miss Barrows with "the troupe" again. Their performances were greeted by large crowds, and it goes without saying that this is the most popular company that has ever appeared in our town. The Raymond public will await with eagerness another visit from the company by popular company in the near future.

To Annette Nilsson
Its fifty years ago today
Since the Pioneers came here to stay.
This Prairie land was a wilderness.
No hand had tilled the soil.
And here that brave heroic band,
Forer of the land as eye could see
Was naught but barren sod.
And here that brave heroic band,
Had come to serve their God.
What they endured here for a time
No tongue can ever tell.
But with good faith and humble hearts
They heaved to say, "it well.
Labor brings a sure reward,
So we are wont to say,
And surely we're the proof of it,
As we gauge round today.
The prairies blossom as a rose;
Oh! well you know the rest,
Far now is not fair Utah known
As the "Queen of the West."

Government. Premier Roblin has promised to take the matter up with his cabinet in a few days and no difficulty in obtaining the grant asked for is anticipated. A definite answer is expected within a week, and then the local Government of Alberta, Saskatchewan, British Columbia so that Exposition plans may be put into definite form as soon as possible and the utmost limit of time allowed for working out the innumerable details that must be attended to in order that the 1912 Exposition should be a thoroughly creditable work to this Dominion.

At a meeting of the Exposition committee held July 16, it was decided to name the 1912 Exposition, "Canada's International Exposition and Selkirk Centennial," and to add the words "Winnipeg 1912," to designate the time and place of the big fair. Discussion of the title brought out opinions that the name had ought to be as broad and descriptive as possible.

NOXIOUS WEEDS

The Cardston Star says:

"Just at present the eyes of the public are upon the weed inspector and his work."

"It is a sad commentary on our methods of farming, that laws compelling the destruction of noxious weeds should be necessary. It should be a material advantage to every free holder to see that his lands produce something of value rather than allowing a menace to his own and his neighbor's welfare. The thrifty farmer cannot afford to spare the space for a noxious growth, hence he labors for its eradication, with the result that he produces marketable products and is not censured by the inspector, nor is he the one that become different to his own as well as his neighbor's good. If a few examples should be made of persistent infractions of the "Noxious Weeds" Ordinance, it would have a more salutary effect upon the whole community, than the leniency with which this serious matter has heretofore been treated."

Stink weed is gaining ground every year, especially on lands that have once been under cultivation, but are now idle. Every acre of such land could be made to produce valuable timothy or bromus hay under proper cultivation but now is gradually getting away from all control, and it will take years of time and hard work to bring into subjection again.

Lands left in the condition above mentioned are deteriorating in value rather than increasing. One homestead near our town, owned now by a non-resident has not been cultivated for three years past and it is doubtful if the owner could sell the land for as much to-day as he paid for it, aside from the money he has expended in half-hearted way to comply with the law.

Let everybody clean up without being compelled to.

EXPERIMENTAL FARM EXCURSION

The Alberta Department of agriculture is making arrangements to have excursion trains run to the Lethbridge and Lacombe Experimental farms. A special train will be run from Calgary to Lethbridge on July 23rd, leaving Calgary at 9 a.m., returning the same evening, leaving Lethbridge at 6:30 p.m. A fare and one third will be given on the regular train from Walsh to Lethbridge and on the A. R. I. from Cardston and from Coulters leaving July 22nd and returning on the 24th.

The Superintendents of the Experimental farms will have several men to act as guides, explaining to the people the various matters of interest to be found on the farms. Short addresses will also be delivered. It would be advisable for the people to bring their lunch baskets with them as the farms are located at some little distance from the towns. Hot water will be provided free of charge.

These two experimental farms were established in 1907 and have both made good progress. There are many interesting features to be seen, and it is hoped that the people of the Province will take advantage of the cheap excursion rates to visit these farms.

New Land District

The new land district, which will be known as the peace River district, will include roughly speaking, the square of Alberta north and west of Athabasca Landing. The exact southern boundary is the 60th township which is three townships north of the Landing. The district extends to the east as far as range four, west of the 4th and at the 8th township the east boundary extends to the 6th meridian itself. The district also takes in the 3,500,000 acres in British Columbia, the centre of which is Fort St John.

THE TRUE VAMPIRE.

An Experience With the Blood Sucking Animal in India.

Chander, one evening, in a house, where he had just entered an outdoor room, which there was no other person than the doctor, I was attracted in being able to procure a light and thus to proceed to the capture of the animal. Upon stalling itself, pursued it took three or four turns around the apartment, when down dropped what at the moment I supposed to be its young and which I deposited in my handkerchief. After a moment's reflection I then secured the object of my pursuit, which proved to be a fine female megaderm. It then looked to the other but which I had picked up and to my considerable surprise found it to be a small kind of fly, which is extremely abundant throughout India.

The individual now referred to was feebly from loss of blood, which it was evident the megaderm had been sucking from a large and still bleeding wound under and behind the ear, and the very obviously suicidal form of the mouth of the megaderm was itself sufficient to hint the strong probability of such being the case. During the very short time that elapsed before I entered the enclosure it did not appear to the doctor that it was so fatigued, and I am satisfied that it sucked the vital fluid from its victim as it flew, leaving probably seated it on the wing, and that it was seeking a quiet nook where it might devour the body at leisure.

I kept both animals separate till next morning, when, presenting a convenient cage, I first put in the megaderm, and after observing for some time I moved the flycatcher with it. No sooner was the latter perceived than the other fastened upon it with the ferocity of a tiger, again seizing it behind the ear, and made several efforts to fly with it, but, finding it could not do so, it then brought the hind legs to one side of its prison, after sucking its victim, no more blood was left, commencing to feast and soon left nothing but the head and some portions of the limbs—'Blood and Man in India.'

POULTRY POINTERS.

Everything in the poultry house should be dry. Ducks will not thrive on sloppy food nor on cornmeal alone. Baked potatoes, turnips and other vegetables may be fed to ducks to advantage. A good food for fattening fowls can be made by mixing cornmeal with meal and potatoes. In dry picking poultry the picking must be done while the fowl is warm as soon as possible after the fowl is killed. The nests should never be fastened to the poultry house in such a way that they cannot be readily removed and cleaned. Fowls are very fond of raw vegetables. Beta carota, turnips and especially cabbage may be fed to advantage. The best plan is to chop these

Potential Tales

A King Can Always Find a Way Out of Any Difficulty.

ON day, as his royal highness was wandering about the city in disguise, he heard much talk of a famine in the land, and upon reaching his palace he pressed the button and summoned Abdullah, his prime minister, and said: "What is all this talk about a famine in the land? I have heard nothing of it before today."

"It is true, O ruler," replied the P. M. "All the crops have failed and thousands of your subjects are facing starvation."

"But why was I not informed of the fact long ago, that I might issue a proclamation commanding full crops to grow?"

"Alas, your majesty, I was so busy that it slipped my mind."

"Hm, is there a famine," muttered the king, "it is true."

"And unless I come to the rescue of my people thousands may starve!"

"It will be so, O ruler, but, alas, what can you do?"

"What can I do, you old wretch, against evil croaker? I can issue a proclamation, of course. You grab up that pen and dash it off at once. Say that the king has learned that all crops have failed and a famine is imminent and that his sympathies are deeply stirred on behalf of his people."

"Is done, O king," said Abdullah as he snatched the pen.

"Then follow it by a second. We have announced that our sympathies are with our subjects, but at the same time we don't wait our subjects to lose sight of the main question at issue. You will therefore say that the tax levy will be the same as usual and that prompt payment will be expected from all. There the matter is now off my mind, and the country is going ahead toward renewed prosperity."

"The king had asked for boiled eggs for his breakfast, and as none were forthcoming he threw his robe of state around him and stalked into the room of his prime minister and thundered out:

"By the great horn bicorn, Mustapha Mustapha, but who is king of this country, if you please?"

"You are, O ruler," was the reply.

"Then I want things my way. Two months ago I ordered you to make war on Abdul Silar. Why haven't you done so?"

"Because we have no cash to fit out an army, your majesty. I was going to speak to you about it today."

"No cash in my treasury? What has become of it?"

"You have spent most of it in building golf links and backing baseball clubs."

"Death! I cannot believe it. Weeks and weeks ago I issued a royal proclamation commanding the rebel leader, Fumpher, to come in and surrender. Has he done so?"

"Well, hardly. He issued a counter proclamation telling your majesty to go to India. We are not strong enough to take him."

"And I must be insulted on my own throne? Mustapha, order in three bottles of champagne, for I am thirsty."

"We have none, your majesty."

"Then make it clear."

"We have no champagne."

"Fumpher! But am I king or a puppet? Take twelve men with you and visit the banker Jiminos and bring back six sacks of gold."

"I'd be glad to do so, O king, but old Jiminos got on to our game long ago and slipped out with his cash."

"Then order my army to make a foray into the domains of King Ashar."

"You have no army, precious sire?"

"What! Has it come to this? Then I bid thee to go out and sell part of my horses."

"You have none to sell."

"Friends and fools! But am I to be thus deceived? I command that all taxes be doubled for the year."

"It will do no good, O ruler, as the people are laid up."

"Then secure a loan on the crown jewels."

"Alas, sire, there are none. We soaked the last ruby a year ago."

"Look here, Mustapha," said the king as he drew nearer, "I'm a king, ain't I?"

"For sure, your majesty."

"Then boss and cock of the walk?"

"The name, sire."

"And what I say goes?"

"It certainly does."

"Then get the cook to have strong beans for dinner and tell not on his head."

On the Hawaiian Death Prayer.

Upon the minds of such a people as the Hawaiians were, while our country was in its infancy, was a belief that ancient form of religion, it was a natural form of superstition should gain a rooted hold. The most curious and effective belief to which they were made subject was that a man can be prayed to death, a belief that survived among the natives to the present day. For the success of the ritual death prayer it was necessary to obtain some hair or a piece of finger nail of the intended victim. A priest was then employed to use incantation and prayer for the destruction. Always informed of the death that the priest was invoking upon him, the victim generally pined away and died.

There is a story that an Englishman in the service of Kamehameha I. having incurred the displeasure of a priest, the latter proceeded to "remove" him by the death prayer process. The Englishman, however, set up an opposition altar in derision and jokingly proclaimed that he intended to pray the priest to death. Alarmed at the threat and overwhelmed at the failure of his own incantations, the sorcerer died, proving by his death his faith in his religion.

The Social Capital.
We do not think that either Washington or New York or any other city will ever become the social capital of the United States. At least since the social capital of Great Britain, Washington will come much nearer to it than it is at present. But the country is to have a social capital. Hordes of people will come to New York to make money, to amuse themselves, to study, to live their lives in the least restricted atmosphere that the country affords, but only very rich people will come here to find and occupy a place in organized society. Pleasant people always find pleasant playmates here. There is no lack of good company for everybody that is communicable. But the charm of New York for people who still live elsewhere is not in its society, but in its shops and shows, its sunshine, its eating and its drinking. It is pleasant. It grows finer every day. While it is finished it will be a marvelous city, but hardly the social capital of the country.

A Finny Acrebit.
No two leaps of the tarpon are quite alike. As the tarpon comes out into day his jaws distend, his gills flap open, and the muted but fine across the water for a hundred feet, while he rears at the hook, shaking his head angrily from side to side, like a horse that fights his bit. In midwater he will turn and cut into the current with a head on that makes a perfect cleavage of the whitened water. His next emergence may be by a back somersault and his third a long distance jump with a splash that sends the water flying in every direction. With infinite spirit he will continue his play until about half past four, when the spring and summering leaps into a long, rolling stroke and the side, slapping the water foot dorsal finement, which waves and floats out behind, like some swimming water creature—Country Life in America.

The Knowledge That Pays.
If you glance round at the work of some of our big men you will be surprised to see how many have made their reputation by doing one small thing but doing it well. If a man gets to the front in one narrow subject the world craves him with knowledge of all the rest. It is, however, even easier to acquire a large general knowledge than an advanced special knowledge of one narrow subject. The specialty must not be too narrow either. It is often said that the pursuit of knowledge has a nobility of its own. But what knowledge? No knowledge is worth obtaining for its own or any other name unless it is or will probably be useful to men.—James Swinburne in Electrical Review.

Can't be Happy If We Wish.
If in a less fortunate time than ours, when the resources of mind and body were less varied and plentiful than they are now, men and women took delight in life, warmed both hands at the fire and filled their hearts with joy and gladness, may we not conclude that they were happy simply because they lived, as we might, in the right way, and put to their right uses that which was provided for them?

Overeducated Hindoos.
There exists among India's educated classes a mad desire for professional vocations. Take a walk in certain streets in India, and you will observe a perfect panorama of significant dejected professional callings, and the business houses are principally conspicuous by their absence.—Times of India.

Time to Begin.
Are you doing as much to brighten this world as a single sunbeam does? Are you scattering as much fragrance in the lives about you as is shed by one little violet? Do you refresh tired hearts as a drop of rain refreshes a drooping plant? If not, it is time to begin.

His Economy.
Wright-Brown is very economical, but he's Black-Brown. Well, I'll tell you. Brownie is the sort of man who, when he wants an owl and hasn't any, instead of buying one will go to work to make one by straightening out a corker.

A Peasie.
Miss Goodwin—What did Jim Jackson get married for? Miss Washburn—Goodness only know! He keeps right on working.

The Ignorance the choice where know edge leads to work.

For the benefit of some of our readers we might say that church members in Antars, France, are refused religious services. Unless the money is forthcoming. Subscribers to the Rustler take fair warning.

The process of making gold bricks with actual gold is one of the features of the Treasury exhibited at the World's Fair Seattle. Alaskan gold is bought, assayed and used in this section.

Mr. A. R. Hutchinson, of the Evelyn-Ford Sales Co., expert sales specialists, of Vancouver, B. C., was a visitor to town this week. Mr. Hutchinson has conducted several successful sales in Lethbridge for the above firm during the past few months.

At a special meeting held in the council chambers last Saturday evening, it was decided to wire Galt and Smith, consulting engineers of Toronto, accepting their terms for the installation of a water system in town. The work no doubt will be rushed along at once.

as it is necessary that the system be completed before the frost sets in.

For the first time in the history of Expositions the government has established an assay office at the Alaska Yukon Pacific Exposition in the Treasury section of the Government building. Gold is received, assayed and paid for on the grounds.

Wednesday last the public auction of the Relief Society land took place at the Knight Sugar Co.'s office. Mr. C. McCarty was the successful bidder he purchasing it for 27.50 per acre.

Daily Drills by the life saving crew at the Alaska Yukon Pacific Exposition, with self-bailing surf boat, breeches buoy and complete apparatus, offer one of the attractive features exhibited by the Government.

Last week Leonard Van Assal, appeared before Inspector West, R. N. W. M. P. charged with cruelty to animals. He was fined ten dollars and costs and was let go on suspended sentence with fair warning that he must be careful in the future.

The most complete X-Ray machine ever set up is to be seen in the building of electrical wonders on the Pay Streak at the World's Fair in Seattle. Scientists are visiting this exhibit to gather data on the experiment conducted with the different appliances.

Last Friday evening, H. Craven and company, a local troupe of artists presented the play "Silver King" to a good crowd in the Opera House. It was pronounced by many who attended as being one of the best amateur productions seen in our town, everyone of the performers rendering their parts well.

It is a source of general satisfaction to know that we have such clever home talent, and we hope that our people may be favored with another production in the near future. The troupe play in Lethbridge on Thursday evening and no doubt a good turnout will greet them.

Last Saturday a baseball nine came from Lethbridge, composed of the three amateur city clubs arrived in Raymond with the intention of giving the "Reds" the best trimming they ever had. But its the same old story in the same old way. It was just like Jack Corrigan taking the Miners up against the Giants, they were not in it at all only for one inning. Our old pal, Roy O'Brien held the position down in the box, and done the work to perfection. The score at the finish was 9 to 4 for the unbeaten "Reds." It is expected that our boys will play with them this coming Saturday, when the Miners claim that a different story will be told. However if our boys stay in practice, we have our doubts and will go farther and say that we have one of the best amateur nines to be found anywhere in the South. Later—The Miners blew into town again this week and were beaten by a score of 10-4. The Lethbridge sports will have to borrow some of Jack Corrigan's material by all appearances, if they expect to trim the Sugar City boys. "Tommy" these importations from the "Peanut League" are on the "pink."

In the issue of Magrath Pioneer the 131st, reference is made in its columns of the non appearance of the Raymond baseball nine in the Garden city on the 9th. We might say for the benefit of the Pioneer that our boys did not really have to play that game to gain possession of the Southern Alberta trophy, simply because Cardston defaulted the rest of the games for this season. Had Cardston played their schedule our boys would have done likewise and would have been on the Garden City diamond on 9th if had really effected their standing in the league. However our boys were in a not notifying the Magrath fans that they would not appear, as no doubt a considerable amount of time and money was spent in advertising the game.

The Pioneer says that the Garden City boys have offered to play our boys in Lethbridge for any sum of money from $100 to $500. Our southern column might in its next issue inform the Garden City sports to put up their money in the city of Lethbridge for a game and we don't think it would take long for our boys to cover, or to double it if necessary, the Magrath boys made the "bluff" so stick to it.
